BEST BUYS FOR THE WEEK
In Torrance Markets

ON THE PRODUCE STANDS
ARTICHOKES came into their own in October and November. Quality, so far, has been only fair but expected to improve.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS are more abundant. October is one of the best months for this vegetable. Commercial freezers are getting busy.

CAULIFLOWER. The new crop is not of quality we expect... decreasing temperatures will improve it.

An abundance of these vegetables is in the market: snap beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, peppers, potatoes, all varieties of squash and tomatoes.

Winter supplies of carrots, lettuce and corn are being planted in the desert districts... celery in San Diego and Orange Counties and in the Oxnard area.

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN FRUIT IS POURING IN TO MARKET
APPLES... California orchards are sending Delicious, Pippins and Belleflowers while early harvests of Jonathans and McIntosh from Washington and British Columbia are making their appearance. Roadside sales continue in Oak Glen.

GRAPES. Every variety except Thompson Seedless. There are a few good ones but it's a little late for Thompsons.

MELONS. Everything plentiful except watermelons; beyond their peak of harvest.

PEACHES. Some very late varieties are in, but many fine quality peaches are coming out of storage.

PEARS. Fine Bartletts. Signs of fall and winter... the end of daylight saving time and the appearance of Anjou and Winter Nells pears.

Other indications of season changes: pomegranates, prickly pears, quince and chestnuts in market.

Civic Leaders Hail Delivery of First Gas Through New Pipeline

Officials from two states today saluted achievement of an economic milestone—a second major source of natural gas—for Southern California.

Gathering at a special luncheon sponsored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, civic and business leaders and members of the press from both Texas and California commemorated initial deliveries of natural gas through the recently completed Transwestern Pipeline.

The 1400-mile pipeline, under construction by the Transwestern Pipeline Co. of Houston, Texas for more than a year, links Southern California with vast new supply sources in Oklahoma and Texas.

TAKING PART in the ceremonies presented by the Los Angeles Chamber were Robert A. Hornby, president of Pacific Lighting Corp.; William K. Warren, chairman of the board, Transwestern Pipeline Co.; William B. Bennett, chief council, California Public Utilities Commission; and Ben Ramsey, Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

Stephen C. Bilheimer, vice president of the Los Angeles Chamber, served as chairman of the special luncheon and Chester Lauck, executive assistant to president, Continental Oil Co., was master of ceremonies.

POINTING UP the importance of this second source of supply, Chamber Vice President Bilheimer, told the more than 600 guests at the luncheon in the Pacific Ballroom of the Statler Hilton Hotel that more than 75 per cent of the gas used in homes and industries here in Southern California is imported from sources out of the state.

Overall, the initial deliveries being made to Southern California through the new Transwestern line amount to 300 million cubic feet of gas a day. This means an immediate increase of 25 per cent over the more than 1.1 billion cubic feet

Levy Joins Trade-Tech As Teacher

Torrance resident Edward Levy is the newest member to join the Extended Day Program at Los Angeles Trade-Technical College this fall.

Levy, who lives at 1900 W. Artesia, will instruct classes in gas and electric welding this fall. Before coming to Trade-Tech, the new instructor taught arc welding at San Jose Technical High School, and took his teacher training at UCLA.
